GROW WILL WIN BY ACCLAMATION

The Philadelphia Delegation Decides to Support Him as a Unit.

HE WILL HAVE NO OPPOSITION

The Sentiment in Behalf of the Sage of Glenwood Bears Down Upon the Leaders and They Concede the Wisdom of Acquiescence—Convention's Work Will Be Short, Sharp and Enthusiastic—General Hastings Cordially Received—Some of the Prominent Northeastern Pennsylvanians Present on the Eve of Today's Love Feast.

Special to The Scranton Tribune.

HARRISBURG, Jan. 2.—General Frank Reedler told a reporter this morning that he was emphatically not a candidate and that he believed the nomination would go to Susquehanna county, it is believed he clinched the boom of the sage of Glenwood, beyond any probability of defeat. At all events, the grow headquarters at the Lochiel soon afterward exhibited an irrepressible air of victory. Senator Quay, who will not be in the city tomorrow, sent word by his son Richard that he had no preferences; and the attitude of David Martin, ex Collector Cooper and others of the Philadelphia leaders nearest to the junior senator soon afterward pronounced in the ex speaker's behalf. Tonight, in the senate chamber, with William R. Leach in the chair, and Seymour R. Abern and Charles H. Wyllie acting as secretaries, the Philadelphia delegation voted unanimously to support Mr. Grow as a unit. The motion, which was made by David Martin, after a long consultation with Dick Quay, was the outgrowth of General Reedler's declaration. General Snowden's retirement from the fight, and the decision of the supporters of George A. Castor that it would be utterly futile to attempt to stem the tide from the northeastern counties. A committee, consisting of David Martin, Alexander Crow and Arthur Moore, was appointed to notify Mr. Grow of the action of the caucus, which was the signal of much jubilation among the delegates and visitors from "up country" as they say here.

There is now every reason to believe that when the convention assembles tomorrow only one ballot will be taken, and Mr. Grow will be nominated by acclamation. The friends of ex Congressman J. S. Biery, of Allentown, may decide to present his name to the convention by way of compliment.

Tonight at the Commonwealth the leaders came to an agreement as to the platform. It will be short, sharp and emphatic. The only three points to be covered will be a tribute to General Lillie's memory, a biting arraignment of the Wilson bill and a sharp flow of vigorous Anglo-Saxon with reference to the Cleveland-Blount-Gresham policy of infamy toward Hawaii.

At 10 o'clock tomorrow the state committee will decide upon a date and place for the holding of the convention of next summer. Sentiment favors an early gathering, and it is probable the convention will be held for the last week in May or the first week in June. Allentown and Williamsport both want to entertain its delegates, but it will probably go to Harrisburg, in view of the capital's superior access by rail.

MR. GROW CONGRATULATED.

The grow headquarters were thronged throughout the afternoon and evening. Representatives, Scranton, Lehigh, Luzerne, Warren, and Deleware, Zimmerman and Jones, of Carbondale, were in active evidence; and late in the evening Editor Theodore Hart, of Pittston, the sponsor of the grow movement, was greeted cordially. The attendance from the northeastern counties is large, considering the fact that only one nomination is to be made. Editor Powell, accompanied by ex-Attorney General Palmer, from Luzerne's county seat, reached the Lochiel at about the same time that General Hastings arrived in town of his expert literary promoter, Colonel J. H. Lambert, of the Philadelphia Press.

When it became known later that Mr. Grow would have virtually no opposition, there was a surge in his direction, and nothing but his remarkable vitality enabled him to endure the handshaking that bombarded him. General Hastings was cordially received everywhere. It is claimed that a quiet canvass is being made in his behalf, the result of which may lead to his nomination without show of opposition. John B. Robinson and Walter Lyon are also sowing oats for the lieutenant governorship, with the indications seemingly favorable to Lyon.

SAY THEY'LL STEAL OR HAVE WORK

Crowds of Men, Women and Children Who Are Starving in Cleveland Become Urgent in Demand.

CLEVELAND, Jan. 2.—At an early hour this morning, a large crowd of unemployed men and women filled the street in front of the Bethel where they have for some time received provisions from day to day. Superintendent Raymond said: "For the last three months we have given away $500 a day. Now our treasury is empty. There is money at the city hall, there is work there and I advise you to go to Director Farley and request employment."

Almost immediately the crowd became active and cries of "We will have work or tear down the city hall" emanated from some quarters. Director Farley's office was entered but the director was not in. Police were summoned and after announcing that there was no work to be had the office was cleared. James Cooney, spokesman of the committee, said he had a wife and three children and his baby was dying for lack of food. "If you cannot give us work," he said, "we will be compelled to steal."

BRUTAL ATTACK ON CATHOLICS

Cossacks Drive Them from Church, Kill Some and Cause Others to Drown.

TRAMPLE SOME OF THEM TO DEATH

Some of the Fleeing People Fell to the Ground in an Agony of Fear, and Were Struck with Lances by Horsemen—Many Fugitives Plunged Into the River, Cossacks Laughing and Jeering at Them in Response to Their Cries for Help.

BERLIN, Jan. 2.—AST November the Vossische Zeitung of this city published a story from Kovno, capital of the government of that name in Russia, stating that the imperial authorities, who are, of course, members of the Greek church, had ordered that the Catholic church at Krosche, in that government, be closed. With the purpose, it was said, of preventing the order from being carried out, a large number of Catholics took possession of the church and held it, day and night, against the authorities.

The governor at last sent a troop of Cossacks to dislodge the defenders of the church and a desperate conflict resulted. Twenty of the Catholics were said to have been killed with swords or lances, while 100 were reported to have been wounded. Those who were unhurt or only slightly injured fled from the church, pursued by the Cossacks, who drove them into a river, where many of them were drowned. The orthodox peasants were said to have aided in the massacre.

BLOODY BATTLE BETWEEN MINERS.

Citizens of Two Iowa Towns Determine to Wipe Out Each Other and Carnage Ensues.

WEBSTER CITY, Ia., Jan. 2.—When the sun set at Dayton, a small mining town near here, tonight, it was on a scene of the wildest excitement. Two hundred miners from the little town of Frazier, two miles away, had been there to wipe it from the face of the earth. They had left on the field last night, where a fierce battle took place, wounded men and companions, who were literally cut to pieces. For the past five years a feud has existed between the towns of Dayton and Frazier.

Last night a dance was in progress in the village hall at Dayton and nearly half of the people of the town were present. The dance was at its zenith when, with loud hallooing and noise enough to frighten a regiment of soldiers, a great crowd of miners from Frazier flocked to the hall. The Dayton men hastened home and secured their Winchester. City Marshall Lawson begged them to be quiet and go home. Some one drew a revolver and fired, the bullet entering the officer's stomach, killing him instantly.

A bloody battle followed, and the miners took place. Frank Doud, deputy United States marshal under President Harrison, was horribly injured. John Gustafson, a prominent man of the town, was literally cut to pieces. The battle was furiously fought for half an hour. When the fray was over, about a dozen persons on each side were injured and one was killed. In the morning the miners returned to their homes at Frazier. Eight of the ring leaders were arrested.
